Location

Follow in the footsteps of Nobel prize winners, marvel at half-timbered houses and visit Göttingen's most kissed girl. Göttingen is a picture-perfect university city in the southern part of Lower Saxony. With the Georg August University, Göttingen features the oldest and largest university in the federal state and the city's culture is characterised by student life. Stroll through the charming old town with its historic half-timbered houses. The Gänseliesel, one of the most famous attractions, can be found on the market square in the centre of Göttingen. The bronze fountain figure is widely acknowledged to be the most kissed girl in the world because custom dictates that those who have just finished their doctoral degree have to kiss the sculpture of this girl. Popular destinations for day trips near Göttingen include Plesse Castle at Bovenden or the Kieselsee recreational area. It is also worth taking a short trip into the Harz mountains. A good starting point for exploring the city on the River Leine is GHOTEL hotel & living Göttingen. The hotel offers a good location for transport purposes because it is right by the train station.
